Dear Chapman,

Very pleased to hear from you again. I have rather a feeling that the winter is as good as over : and I am quite pleased to have survived one more. Dozens yet in store, I hope: though as a matter of taste I would prefer a few extra summers!

I am glad you like the look of the latest annual: a liking that I am quite sure I shall share when I see it. About Punch, it was a spot of luck which did really delight me: But history has not so far repeated itself. However, another little spot has come my way: nothing less than a Latin story in the Times Educational Supplement. It is not out yet, but you can guess that I am looking forward to seeing it tremendously. I suppose it is a bit unusual for an old boy of eighty-five to find pleasure in such things: but after all, what's the odds so long as you're 'appy?

Kindest regards and very best wishes,

Frederic Richards
